FALSE TO HIS PLEDGES.

Against Mayor Strong.

(New York Times.)

"The third ground of defeat is closely connected with the second, and has to do with our Mayor. No one can be more prompt than I to recognize the good trol him in appolarments, and now he confesses that they have, and that he has reduced their control down to a fine scientific point of mathematical accuracy. When we pleaded for his election, a year ago, he thought and promised that,

Roosevelt and his colleagues have incarnated the idea of the enforcement of law, the political miscellaneousness of the ticket, by which we have just been de-teated, and for which the small poli-ticians, and not the Committee of Fifty, are responsible, would never have been moral obliquity; but, having been asked by my friends for my views of the causes of defeat. I saw no particular reason why I should not state those views; and, if I was to state them at all, of course I had to state them frankly."

Mayor Strong's attention was called to Dr. Parkhurst's statement. The Mayor stroked his beard, and thought a minute, then said he did not care to answer the criticism. The statement was then read to him. He smiled grimly now and then during the reading. Well, I am glad to know just what Dr. Parkhurst does think of this administration." he said. "The great trouble seems to be that there is a great differ-ence of opinion as to the real meaning of the term non-partisanship. In select-

LURAY, VA., November 9 .- (Special.) -The murder of Mr. Willis D. THE NEPHEW ARRESTED. The interest was heightened to-day by the arrest of Newton Kibier, the nephew of the murdered man, with whom Newton The Rev. Dr. C. H. Parkhurst places lived, and Mrs. Fannie P. Kearns, of some of the blame for the defeat of the Baltimore, Md., an old acquaintance of the deceased. The latter is, however, simply detained as a witness. The boy is charged in the warrant of arrest with the murder of his uncle. Young Kibler, and Mrs. Kearns were arrested by Sheriff Rosser and a deputy as they were about

> On the boy's person was found the pocket-book of the deceased, with something over $55 therein. He endeavored to account for this by saying that he found it on the premises two days ago. Both parties were taken before Justice Bragonier, and the inquiry adjourned until Thursday next. Newton Kibler was taken to Front Royal jail this evening, and Mrs. Kearns is held at the house of an acquaintance. Mrs. Kearns came here in response to a telegram notifying of an acquaintance, Mrs. Kearns came here in response to a telegram notifying her of Mr. Kibler's death. She and her husband formerly lived on Mr. Kibler's place, and the feeling between them and the deceased was of the most

OTHER ARRESTS LIKELY Various circumstances tend, it is alleged, to connect the boy with the crime, but the opinion is held by many that there were other participants in the murder, and that he could not have carried in unaided the dead body of his uncle and laid it on the bed, as he says he had been the country of the carried in the case are urcle and laid it on the bed, as he says he did. Further developments in the case are awaited with much interest, and it is not unlikely that other arrests will follow. EARTH'S GREATEST CRATER. Evidences of Tremendous Activity at Crater Lake.

of Ashland, gave a very cloquent and interesting description of Crater Lake, Mr. Watson said, in part:

"To the efforts of Mr. W. G. Steel, Captain Dutton, and the Oregon Albine Cub, Oregon is inaebted for the national park known as Crater Lake. This park is situated directly on the summit of the Cascade mountains, and the crater is about twenty-five miles north of Fort Kalamath. By soundings made during the survey the water was found to be over 2,000 feet deep. The surface of the water is 6,251 feet above the sea level. Wizard Island is a volcanic cone within the crater, and has an altitude of $55 feet above the water level of the lake, Llao Rock rises perpendicularly above the water 2,010 feet, Heliotrope station is 1,355 feet high. Shagg Rock rises 2,115 feet, and Dutton Cliff 2,105 feet above the water level of the lake.

Shagg Rock rises contains forty-two square miles, or about 25,000 acres. From the highest point on its bank to its greatest depth is over 4,000 feet. All the buildings and other structures of New York and Philadelphia, broken up and thrown into it, would not fill it. The upper third of Mount Hood, in verted and dropped into it, would fall below the summit of Dutton Cliff, and would leave great caverns unfilled. Yet this was once a massive mountain, towwould leave great caverns unlined, this was once a massive mountain, towering thousands of feet above its present highest point, and all this mass of matter has been scattered and dissipated by fire. The great fires of Chicago, Boston and Moscow combined would have been an insignificant glimmer compared with the volumes of flames and steam are stones and molten masses ejected from this mighty mountain, and scattered for hundreds of miles about its base. Ther are few known volcanic craters, active o extinct, that are not mere dwarfs compared with this one. Crater Lake has feature that is peculiar to itself, i.e., is everywhere encompassed by giganti walls, nowhere less than 1,000 feet high and in places reaching an altitude o more than 2,000 feet.

"I will venture to say that the evidence which evid here clearly show that the which exist here clearly show that the cone which once covered this old crat-reached an altitude of from 16,000 to 20,000 feet above the level of the ocea; 20,000 feet above the level of the ocean and possibly more. To my mind it wa once the highest mountain on the Conti-nent. If we consider its base, form and the angle of its side, then the shape, side, angles, height, and base area of the present high peaks of the same range, formed at the same time area of the present high peaks of the same range, formed at the same time and from like causes; considering, also that which is an admitted geological fact that the flow had ceased practically from all the other craters along this old frac-ture-line, which became clogged and choked, we will easily imagine the naresons; but because I considered them the fittest persons for the places to which they were appointed. I don't think many of them can be classed as politicians. Take the tax department; Mr. Sutrocannot be classed as a politician, I think. Mr. Wells may be a politician, but he was chosen because I wanted a man from the district above the Harlem, who was acquainted with that territory and real estate values there. I think Mr. Wells fills the bill very well."

The Mayor also said, in answer to a question as to whether he looked upon Commissioner Rossevelt as a Republican politician, that he believed Mr. Rossevelt bad expressed himself as glorying in his Republicanism. choked, we will easily imagine the na-tural consequences, which would be an increased energy and force, at the only considerable remaining vent left open for the relief of the pent-up forces forces that have been sufficient to elevate a stupendous range to an altitude of from 6.00 to 12.00 feet; to cover hundreds, ay. thousands, of square miles with a macaof lava from 2,000 to 4,000 feet thick, concentrating all strength and energy at this one spot. We need not be surprised that at such a place and under such circumstances we find evidences of the greatest volcanic effort the world has experienced.
It would be strange, too, if there we did not find the most stupendous cone, the destruction of which was the world an aggregation of the forces employed. of an aggregation of the forces employed After considering all this, if we will pro-tract the lines of this mountain up-ward on the angles of its sides, as w-ward on the angles of its sides, as we find them, until they meet, giving to it the shape of Hood, Jefferson, Diamond Peak, McLoughlin, and Shasta, its culminating point would pierce the clouds not much below Everest.

"I am credibly informed that Mount Hood, at an elevation of 8,000 feet, is not more than three miles in diameter Yet Hood is practically 12,000 feet high. We can well use Hood to compare this one with. It is only an infam in size compared with the one we are treating Imagine it cut off, however, at the level of the top of Crater Lake Mountain, and we have the frustrum of a cone, with its upper plane only three miles in diameter, while that of the Crater Lake cone is six by seven miles across its hollowed portion alone, Imagination cannot be wilder than the truth in this instance. Just think of R! An execuvation six by seven miles in extent, 4,000 feet deep. seven miles in extent, 4,000 feet deep and filled balf full of the clearest and purest water in the world! In places the wall is almost vertical, and a rock drop-pes from the highest point finds no ob-stacle in the way for near 1,000 feet, and in two bounds sirikes the water more than 2,000 feet below. I tried the experiment, lying flat, noy face beyond the brink, I dropped a stone from my hand, and as I watched it sink down, down, I was taken with an almost irresistible impulse to follow. The sensation under such circumstances is not unusual, neither is it pleasant. The cone, 846 feet high, called Wizard Island, is of much interest. It is a symmetrical cinder cone, and is doubtless the last chimney of the old volcano. The hollowed place in its top is usually partly filled with snow. "At the time of our visit, in 1876, we discovered only one place where we considered it possible to reach the water, and even there we exercised extreme caution. More familiarly, with it has discovered other places, however, where the descent may be made without great difficulty. At the point discovered by us, a causeway had been worn through the rim by the breaking-away of huge fragments, which dashing upon the rocks below, have worn and broken them out, leaving in the track rock-dust and ashes, into which we sank ankle-deep, making the ascent very fatiguing. This passage is at an angle of 30 to 40 degrees, and the perpendicular distance about 1,500 feet. The sides of this causeway are bordered by volcanic rocks, varying from 100 to 400 feet in height.

"We amused ourselves for a time roil."

height.

"We amused ourselves for a time rolling huge rocks, some of them weighing tons, down this pathway, and were astonished by the speed and force they attained. These massive fragments went bounding along with accelerated speed until their velocity would cause them to leap 100 feet into the air, and strike near the bottom, after flying through space for 26 yards, when, with a final leap, they would plunge into the water 100 yards from the shore. What a playground for the Mazamas!

the Mazamas!

from the shore. What a playground for the Mazamas!

"There is no visible inlet or outlet, which, taken in connection with the fact that the precipitation is greater than the evaporation, is evidence of subterranean outlets, which theory is supported by the existence of several streams which spring from the mountain-side."

In describing a visit he had once made alone to the shore of the lake, wien a storm was raging on the heights above, Mr. Watson said: "These walls seem, at one time, to have been in a semi-molten state, when old Vulcan, with the strength which is vouchsafed to him alone, hurled forth his missiles of war, fire, and lava, throwing rocks of all aione, huried forth his missiles of war, fire, and laya, throwing rocks of all dimensions with such force as to embed them in the plastic wails, where they still ching, an evidence of volcanic power, tiere the maddened flames played, and in liquid flashes shot their fiery tongues heavenward. Here the awful thunheavenward. Here the awful thun-ders belched forth their terrors to the wild inhabitants of the surrounding re-gions, while the frightened Indians gions, while the frightened India-crouched in fear beneath the shelter gions, write the Ingittener Instance crouched in fear beneath the shelter of the neighboring mountains, and the heavens were darkened by the storm of ashes and stones, while hery avalanches of molten matter poured their destructive floods down these devil; possessed heights. Here, alone in this loneliest of spois, with the waves dashing madly against the shore surrounded by these fire-begrimed and time-charred battlements of nature, the clouds resting on the summits, and shutting me in from all the world-alone, where the seething fires of hell seem once to have held high carnival, and, cancer-like, to have devoured a mighty mountain. I was seized with a feeling that, in this awe-inspiring solltude, some of the minions of Breizebub might still lurk to punish my presumption for daring to invade this described sanctum of his sainvade this descried sanctum of his sa-tanic majesty."

A tiny life-boat was loosed from the shores of time last Sunday night at 10:20 of the clock, when little THELMA VIRGINIA EVENSEN, the pride and de-VIRGINIA EVENSEN, the price and us-light of loving parents, was wafted away upon that unknown sea upon whose placid bosom sails every one of woman born. We feel, we know, that the prow of this precious ressel was pointed in the direc-tion of the pearly gate of that beautiful city whose golden streets we all hope to tity whose golden streets we all hope to tread. Those precious words of the Master, "Suffer little children to come unto Me for of such is the kingdom of Heaven," convey a consolation infinite in its bounds. The balm to sorely-wounded hearts in this instance is the heartfelt belief that "it is well with the child." belief that Her earthly pligrimage included bur a comparatively few short months, but in that while she had mightily endeared herelf to all by her winsome ways.

Almighty God, it's right, it's just, That earthly frame should turn to dust; But, oh! forgive the wistful tear That would detain a spirit here.
